

Buddhist Forest Monasteries and Meditation Centres in Sri Lanka

A Guide for Foreign Buddhist Monastics and Lay Practitioners

Updated: September 2015

Introduction

In Sri Lanka there are many forest hermitages and meditation centres suitable for foreign Buddhist monastics or for experienced lay Buddhists. The following information is particularly intended for foreign bhikkhus, those who aspire to become bhikkhus, and those who are experienced lay practitioners. Another guide is available for less experienced, short term visiting lay practitioners. It is called: Information about Meditation Centres in Sri Lanka and is available from the BPS website at www.bps.lk/library_other_publi.php.

Factors such as climate, food, noise, standards of monastic discipline (vinaya), dangerous animals and accessibility have been considered regarding the places listed in this work.

The book Sacred Island by Ven. S. Dhammika—published by the BPS—gives exhaustive information regarding ancient monasteries and other sacred sites and pilgrimage places in Sri Lanka.

Country, climate & food

The greatest concentration of forest monasteries is on the western side of the country, especially in Kurunegala, Colombo, Gālla, and Mātara districts. Due to the armed conflict with Tamil insurgents, which ended in May 2009, there are very few active forest monasteries in the northern and eastern districts, although there are ruins of ancient monasteries in many places. However, since the conflict ended there has been unprecedented economic growth and development throughout the country, and some of these monasteries are now being re-developed, most notably Kudumbigala. In the higher mountain areas such as Nuwara Eliya there are also few monasteries because the Sinhalese often find it too cold there.

The area where a monastery or meditation centre is located gives a good indication as to its climate. In the south-western low country the climate is tropical, i.e., hot and humid, especially in March/April, rather like a steam-sauna. The Eastern low country has a dry season between May and October. The South West (roughly between Mātara, Colombo, and Ratnapura) is the so-called “wet-zone” where two monsoons a year take place (May-June, November-December). The so-called “dry-zone” (This is quite an exaggeration as it can rain very heavily there during the rainy seasons and floods occur regularly.) is in the East, North, and South. This area starts about 15 kms north of Mātale, at the eastern and southern edges of the hill country (such as the eastern slopes of the Knuckles range), and east of Balangoda and Tangalle. Only one main monsoon (November-December) takes place there. The deep South (the coastal area between Ambalantota and Pānama) and the far North (Northern coast & Jaffna peninsula) are the driest areas in SL. It can be quite warm here but it is not as humid as the low-country wet zone. The “upcountry” is the hill and mountain area in the centre of Sri Lanka (roughly between Mātale, Kegalla, Balangoda, Haputale, and Badulla). The climate there is temperate and it can get cool at night. (10–22°C depending on the altitude and time of the year. In Nuwara Eliya the temperature can drop to close to freezing point in clear nights in December-January.) For those originally from cool climates it is generally a more agreeable climate than the low country. In the south-west upcountry areas such as the Singharāja rainforest and the Śrī Pāda Wilderness areas it rains a lot, and most of the year, so much so that it sometimes can be impossible to dry one’s clothes for days after washing.

Loudspeakers can be quite a disturbance in Sri Lanka, as in Asia in general. There are only a few places which completely escape the sound of the Paritta-chanting blasted from village-temples on Poya-days.

The food is generally the same everywhere and at all times in Sinhalese areas. It is usually fairly plain and simple. Rice is the staple food. The curries can be quite spicy, with chilli peppers and other spices, and can also be quite salty, especially in rural areas. Although the quality of food has improved greatly in recent times, in undeveloped rural areas food can be unnutritious due to overcooking and lack of fresh vegetables and fruits. If one finds that the food is not nutritious enough a vitamin supplement can be taken. Many people in Sri Lanka do not eat meat or fish, and even if they do, do not give it to monks. In some monasteries and meditation centres small amounts of fish might be served (meat or eggs are rarely given), but if one is a vegetarian one can easily refuse without offending anyone.

Vinaya & monastic traditions

The standards of discipline (vinaya) vary from tradition to tradition, and from monastery to monastery. In Sri Lanka there is not such a strong tradition of refined teacher- and monastery-etiquette as there is in the Thai Forest traditions. The Galduwa Forest Tradition has the strictest vinaya tradition in Sri Lanka and it also follows the commentarial interpretations strictly. In forest monasteries and meditation centres that are not affiliated with the Galduwa tradition the vinaya standards are generally less strict, but still reasonable. In many city and village temples and monks' schools (pirivenas) (not listed in this work) the vinaya-standards can be in need of improvement.

Usually the tradition a monastery or meditation centre belongs to is mentioned as it gives an indication of what the vinaya standards and customs are like in a place. There are many traditions in Sri Lanka. The main ones are:

The Kalyāna Yogāshramaya Saṃsthāva or Galduwa tradition is an independent part of the Rāmañña Nikāya. The headquarters is in Galduwa, near Ambalangoda. It is the largest forest sect in Sri Lanka. Now there are about 150 centres affiliated with this tradition. The monks are easily recognised by the palm-leaf umbrella they carry and by the habit of wearing the double robe whenever they go outside the monastery boundaries. Members of all castes are accepted. Bhikkhus from other traditions who wish to become resident for a long period at one of their monasteries are usually requested to reordain at Galduwa. Until recently, the procedure would be to do a dalhikamma, a short ceremony intended to reconfirm the original upasampadā in accordance with the Galduwa standards, but reportedly this is not done in most places now. Monks who ordained in a Pa Auk monastery in Burma or in a monastery in the Ajahn Chah tradition are accepted and do not require a new upasampadā.

The Deldūva group is a small group of forest monasteries. It is an older forest division of the Rāmañña Nikāya, which is not affiliated with the Galduwa tradition.

The Mahāvihāra Vaṃshika Shyāmapāli Vanavāsa Nikāya or Waturawila group has over 80 branch monasteries throughout the country. The Vinaya standards are not as strict as in the Galduwa group, but are generally reasonable. Usually the monasteries of this tradition have a few elderly monks who are retired government servants and therefore speak English well. The headquarters are in Waturawila in Gālla district.

Madakada group is a sub-sect of the Waturawila group that follows stricter Vinaya standards has its headquarters in Madakada Aranya near Ingiriya.

The Vajirāma Tradition or Dharmarakshita Chapter is a subsect of the Amarapura Nikāya. Its headquarters are Vajirāramaya, Bambalapitiya, Colombo 4 and Dharmāyatana Bhikkhu Training Centre, Maharagama, Colombo. There are a few forest monasteries with stricter Vinaya standards connected with this tradition, notably Bowalawatta Aranya (Kandy), Katu Pota Aranya (Mihintale), Senanāyakārāmaya (Kandy), Island Hermitage (Polgasduwa) and Parapaduwa (Gāla).

The Kanduboda group or Swejyin Nikāya chapter of the Amarapura Nikāya is a group of monasteries connected to the Kanduboda International Meditation Centre and with Sumantiphala Meditation Centre. It originates from the Mahasi Sayadaw tradition, which is part of the Burmese Swejyin Nikāya. The Mahasi Sayadaw meditation technique is practised. It has reasonable standards of Vinaya. There are about twenty small meditation centres connected to this tradition in and near towns but most have little to attract foreigners.

The Tapovana group or Kalyāṇavaṃsa chapter of the Amarapura Nikāya is a small group of semi forest monasteries usually situated near major towns. The headquarters are near Colombo. Usually the Mahāsi meditation method is practised. The monks have reasonable Vinaya standards.

The Mahamevnāva group. A rapidly growing new reformist tradition or movement, started in early 2000s and founded and led by the popular Dhamma teacher Ven. Kiribathgoda Ñāṇānanda. The main emphasis is to study Dhamma and revive Sinhala Buddhism. Most monasteries, called asapuwa, are in village and town areas and all are crowded, especially on Uposatha days, when thousands of people will come to participate in Poya programs. The monasteries are well kept and the monks, who are generally young, are motivated and well behaved. The headquarters is Mahamevnāva Asapuwa near Kegalla. It is connected to the Kalyāṇavaṃsa branch of the Amarapura Nikāya. Without permission from Ven. Ñāṇānanda one can only stay 3 days at monasteries.

Information on the formation and history of the forest traditions in Sri Lanka can be found in Michael Carrithers' book The Forest Monks of Sri Lanka, Oxford 1983.

Note that although some monasteries are called "meditation centre" there might be no meditation teaching happening there.

Culture, manners

Normally travelling monks are welcome to stay in any monastery for the night. Even if there is no monastery in a village, one can stay in the school or some other empty building. For longer stays in a monastery, one needs to ask permission from the abbot and it is normally readily granted if there is space.

In some places the Sinhalese monks might not be so helpful due to negative experiences with foreigners or perhaps due to nationalist sentiments. There have also been recent issues that led to anti-foreign feelings, caused by foreign reactions to the armed conflict in the North. What apparently can also happen is that Sinhalese people can misperceive a foreign monk's reservedness as disdain. This is difficult to avoid as Sinhalese people tend to be quite inquisitive and after a while one can develop a habit of being reserved. However, it is good to make an effort to remain polite and not to appear harsh.

Bhikkhus generally do not get honoured in the same manner as in Thailand or Burma. The body language and the way Sinhalese people and monks speak and behave might appear disrespectful to monks used to Thai or Burmese customs.

Although Sinhalese people themselves can be critical about problems in their country, as a foreigner one generally it is better not to talk about politics and the like. One has to be careful not to develop an overly critical attitudes about things that can be improved in monasteries or the rituals that the locals do. Like most Asians, Sri Lankans are generally quite indirect and are afraid of blame.

In general one can be, and needs to be, independent in Sri Lanka. If one likes to practice independently and is not looking for a charismatic teacher figure or tightly knit monastic group to support one's practice, then Sri Lanka may be suitable. Sinhalese culture, being part of the Indian cultural sphere, allows more individualism than the conformist Thai culture, which is part of the Chinese cultural sphere. Sinhalese leave space to others and there is not such a strong teacher-tradition in Sri Lanka as in Thailand. Nevertheless, there are monks, nuns, and lay practitioners who can give useful instructions and help one along the way.

Travel & communication

Conditions in meditation centres and monasteries can be very basic and sometimes uncomfortable for those used to comforts. Meditation centres and monasteries are not so well off in Sri Lanka and only a few of them will have a vehicle. One has to get used to taking public transport or walking when one wants to go somewhere. Bhikkhus who do not use money can use special coupons with which one can travel on government buses (known as CTB, Ceylon Transport Board). The monastery one stays in can usually supply these. There are also special monks' coupons to travel on trains.

Sri Lanka used to be a British colony and there are many Sinhalese people who can speak English well, especially in Colombo and other big towns. However, in remote country areas it can be more difficult to find English speakers. Nevertheless, in almost every village there will be (or is supposed to be) an English teacher in the village school who will be keen to practise his English and can help with translating if necessary. In the bigger meditation centres and monasteries there is usually someone who can speak English, but in the more remote and smaller monasteries this might not be the case. It is not difficult to learn spoken Sinhala and people are usually helpful and understanding. Many English or rather "Singlish" terms have made their way into the Sinhala language, for example a bus stop is called "bus halt" a "bus station" a "bus stand," and one "gets down" from a bus rather than getting off or out of it. If one uses such information one is more likely to be understood. All people have learnt a bit of English at school, so if there is no other way one can try with simple English terms.

Medical care & diseases

The medical care in government hospitals is free for monks in Sri Lanka. There are bhikkhu-wards in the larger hospitals for those bhikkhus who are seriously ill. Medical care and hygiene are generally not of the same standards as in the West, but the doctors usually do their best to help sick bhikkhus. There are quite a few doctors and dentists who have trained and worked in the West. The monastery one is connected with will help if one needs medicines or medical care. The best hospitals are the large private hospitals in Colombo, but they are expensive. The same doctors who work in the private hospitals also work in government hospitals, but the equipment and facilities in government hospitals are often of a lesser standard, especially in rural hospitals. Dentists often help monks for free.

Unlike some other tropical countries, tropical diseases are not so common because the government healthcare system is well organised. Malaria has been eradicated from Sri Lanka. However, in some urban areas, especially in and around Colombo, there are cases of dengue fever (called "dengu") and chikungunya fever, and, to a much lesser degree, Japanese encephalitis. In some western and south-western coastal areas there is a small risk of contracting the filaria parasite that causes swelling of the lymph nodes and elephantiasis. A campaign is being waged to eradicate this disease. All these diseases are spread by mosquitos. It is therefore always good to use mosquito nets and repellents. Note that the dengue fever mosquito bites during the daytime in shady places. The drinking water is generally of good quality in Sri Lanka; nevertheless, it is always safer to drink boiled, filtered or bottled water.

There is rabies in Sri Lanka and one should go to the local hospital for anti-rabies shots if one is bitten by a dog, stray cat, (fruit-) bat, or by a macaque monkey. The Sinhalese are well aware of the danger of rabies and many dogs are vaccinated against it. Every major hospital has an anti-rabies clinic where one can get the vaccination-shots, which nowadays are completely painless and without side effects.

There is also Leptospirosis or Weil's disease, a dangerous disease characterized by jaundice and fever, which is transmitted by rats' urine in contaminated water in paddy fields, etc., or on on surfaces such as floors, by way of cuts on the skin.

Intestinal pinworms or threadworms are common in Sri Lanka. These usually harmless creatures are spread through food, particularly raw vegetables, touched by the unwashed hands of an infected person. Their presence is marked by itching in the anal area at night. Regular washing one's hands and bottom with soap will usually stop them from reinfesting oneself. If this does not work, an anti-worm tablet will dispell them. Other types of worms are quite rare in Sri Lanka since no raw meat and fish is eaten.

Dangerous animals

Compared to some other tropical areas such as South America or Africa, Sri Lankan nature is benevolent; however there are creatures that one has to be wary of. In many undeveloped jungle areas in the South, East, and North, such as around Ritigala, Kudumbigala, Sīthulpahuva, Rājagala and even Sīgiriya, there are wild elephants and bears which regularly attack and kill people. Monks have been attacked by these beasts and one has to take care when in or near jungle areas, especially at night. The best thing to do when an elephant charges is to run away in a zigzag manner and hide behind a tree or rock. Elephants can run very quickly in a straight line, much quicker than humans, but have difficulties turning. The bear is considered the most unpredictable and dangerous animal by the Sinhalese. People have been killed or badly maimed by them in forest areas. They are good climbers and runners. If one cannot escape, then fall face down on the ground with one's arms spread out and pretend to be dead. The bear will normally want to maul one's face and neck, but if one lies face down and with the arms spread out so that the bear cannot turn one over, then the injuries will be on the back of the head and neck where they are less dangerous. Wild pigs are also known to charge at people and one had better keep away from them. Leopards are very shy and only attack people very rarely. They are not considered a danger.

There are various dangerous snakes such as cobras, Russell's vipers, and kraits in Sri Lanka and many people are killed each year due to snakebites, especially by Russell's vipers and kraits. So take care when going off paths into the jungle, etc. Kraits are nocturnal snakes and often bite people while they sleep. The snake is attracted to the body heat of a sleeping person and it may bite when the person turns over in his sleep. Cobras are shy and will only bite when cornered. Vipers, however, will often not move at all when one approaches and are much more likely to bite. When bitten by a snake, do not panic, note what kind of snake it is and try to go to a hospital as soon as possible to get antivenin. Do not trust village snake doctors. There are also crocodiles in rivers, lakes and ponds in the south and east of the country so ask a local before bathing.

The bite of the big black or blue-green scorpions one often encounters after heavy rainfall is like the bite of a wasp and not dangerous. On the other hand, centipede bites are very painful. Tarantula spiders occasionally enter houses, but they rarely bite people unless provoked. Sri Lankan tarantula bites can cause partial paralysis and severe pain.

Leeches ("kudella") or ticks ("khinithulla") are present in most forest and scrub areas. Leeches are common in humid wet-zone forests, especially on hills and mountains, while ticks are common in dry zone lowland forests. It is rare to have both leeches and ticks in one area. If not treated, leech bites cause bleeding for 10 minutes or more because the leech injects an anti-coagulant into the blood. One will generally not feel the leech bite until the leech has detached and blood starts to flow from the wound. It is best to put tissue, paper or ash on the bite to stop the bleeding. It is easy to remove the leech by pulling or scratching it off. To prevent bites one can avoid going off paths and swept areas into areas with leaves and undergrowth. Putting mosquito repellent, soap, or salt on one's feet will repel them off for a while. There will usually be no itching, unless one is allergic to leech bites. Leeches do not transmit diseases and the bites usually do not become infected. Ticks are common in dry zone forests with a lot of tall grasses and shrubs, especially in national parks where there is a lot of wildlife. Tick bites can cause a lot of itching which can last for days, and due to scratching the wounds, the bites can get infected. Ticks can be quite small and difficult to spot and can climb up one's robes to one's abdomen and back of one's head. They generally bite in soft spots such as the upper legs. Fortunately, they are not known to transmit diseases such as Lyme's disease or other borrelia fevers in Sri Lanka. One can avoid them by not going into scrubby areas and washing oneself and one's clothes well with soap if one has done so. If one has been bitten, then it is best to apply a four way action antiseptic cream (which contains a combination of antiseptic, anti-inflammatory, analgesic and soothing ingredients) as are sold in pharmacies in Australia (Paraderm Plus, Medi Quattro First Aid Cream, etc.). Ticks should never be pulled out straight, which can cause the head to break off and remain embedded, but should be carefully twisted around until they let go by themselves.

It is advisable to use a mosquito-net in forests and rural areas to keep away kraits and other dangerous creatures such as scorpions, centipedes, and mosquitos. However, the risk of having a serious traffic accident while walking on the street or, especially, travelling on a bus is much greater than that of being bitten or attacked by some dangerous creature in the jungle.

Visas

In Sri Lanka, after an initial 3 month visa, Buddhist monks get a free one year residence visa, which need only be extended annually. Since 2010 one needs to have an entry visa from a Sri Lankan embassy before one enters the country if one wants to later apply for a residence visa. The website of the Sri Lanka immigration states: "To obtain a Residence Visa, it is necessary to arrive in Sri Lanka on an Entry Visa issued by a Sri Lankan Mission abroad with the concurrence of the Controller General of Immigration and Emigration. The fact that you wish to apply for Sri Lankan Residence Visa has to be mentioned when obtaining the entry visa and necessary supporting documents has to be submitted."¹ The supporting documents one will need to obtain from the abbot of the monastery where one intends to stay. One can enter the country on a one month tourist visa, which needs to be paid for online (US$15) or in cash on entry into the country ($20).² This tourist visa can be extended two times for a further two months, but then one will have to leave the country to apply for a religious residence visa from a Sri Lankan embassy abroad

² www.eta.gov.lk/slvisa/visainfo/fees.jsp

(not necessarily one's home country), of course with the recommendation letter of the monastery. There are no exemptions to this.

In order to apply for a residence visa, one needs to get a sponsorship letter from the senior monk of the monastery where one stays or with which one is connected, then one needs to go with this letter and the so-called "application form to obtain a letter of recommendation to extend the residence visa" (available at monasteries and/or the Ministry of Buddha Sasana and Religious Affairs in Colombo) to the monk who is the secretary of the district (lekhakādhikāri handuruwo). If one applies for the first time for a residence visa, then please check whether another form is required from the Ministry of Buddha Sasana rather than the one to extend an existing visa, otherwise one might be turned away at the Ministry of Buddha Sasana. One then needs to get the application form signed by him and stamped with his official seal. (It is best to telephone the secretary monk beforehand and make an appointment. For example, the secretary monk in Kandy is only available certain days of the week.) Then this form needs to be signed and stamped by the secretary of the Provincial Council (Kacceri). (Note that if one still has a passport photo as a laymen in one's passport that a passport photo as a monk will need to be attached to this application. It will also need to be stamped and signed by the district monk and provincial council secretary.) The monastery where one stays will usually help with this. When this preliminary paper work has been done, one can go to the Ministry of Buddha Sasana and Religious Affairs at 135 Dharmapala Mawatha (opposite Vihara Maha Devi Park) in Colombo 7 (Tel. 0111-340-7401/ 011-230-7402. Fax: 011-230-7409). (no longer opposite the Lanka Vipassanā Centre) and get a recommendation letter to take to the Department of Immigration. (Do not forget to ask for an extra application form for next year.) For the first time application for a residence visa, one needs to bring along two or three passport photos. (They can be obtained from a shop at the Dept. of Immigration itself.) The Department of Immigration is in Maradāna, within walking distance from the Ministry of Buddhist Affairs. (No. 41 Ananda Rajakaruna Mawatha, Punchi Borella, Colombo 10. Tel. 011-532-9300.) However, there are plans in the near future to move this Department to Battaramulla, which is an outer suburb about a 45 minute/ 1 hour bus ride from central Colombo. At the Ministry of Buddha Sasana and Religious Affairs one generally has to wait less than one hour. At the Immigration Department usually one and a half hours, perhaps more. The Immigration Department might ask one to come back in a few days. If you live in a forest monastery some distance from Colombo one can ask if it is possible to get the visa the same day (usually it takes about 2 hours). One can go to the Ministry of Buddha Sasana and Religious Affairs in the morning and go the Immigration in the afternoon.

Conclusion

There are many monasteries listed in this guide, but when one has seen a couple of monasteries connected to different traditions, in a different areas of the country, then one has an idea of what all of them will roughly be like. There is no perfect place in saṃsāra and as long as one is not liberated from mental defilements one will sooner or later start to find fault with a monastery which at first appeared to be great. There is no monastery which is perfectly quiet and where the monks are all arahants. So, this guide is not intended as a guide to find the perfect place, as a bible for restless monks. There was one user of this guide who went to many of the forest monasteries in this guide but still could not find the perfect conditions he was seeking. So rather than trying to find the perfect external place, which does not exist, it is more realistic to be content with an imperfect place and learn to deal with the defilements that come up in one's mind. Nevertheless, there are particular conditions such as climate and food which affect each person differently and this guide can be used to find a place which matches one's physical constitution and temperament. It can also be used when travelling or going on cārikā, a walking journey, so that one can walk from forest monastery to forest monastery or stay in other places with a reasonable vinaya practice.

Best places for those who are new to Sri Lanka

Nā Uyana AS. Pansiyagama 60554. Tel: 037 337 9036, 037 494 3688 or 037567 7328. Email: nauyana@gmail.com. The website: www.nauyana.org gives useful information. To get there get off at Melsiripura on the Kurunegala-Dambulla Rd, from there take bus to Pansiyagama. From there it is a 30 min. walk. The meditation teacher is Ven. Ariyananda Thera, who speaks good English and has an excellent knowledge of the Pa Auk Samatha and Vipassanā methods. Good kutis, library and facilities. Strict adherence to Vinaya (monastic discipline). There is a meditative atmosphere and the place is reasonably well organised and tidy. At the moment it is the most prominent meditation place in the Galduwa Saṃsthāva. Many foreign bhikkhus, Western as well as Asian, mostly Taiwanese, are staying here. The monastery area covers thousands of acres of hill slopes and there are four monastery sections: The old monastery where the uposatha hall is located in the valley. The meditation retreat section, with its own meditation hall, is located on top of the hill. Behind this, further to the North-east there is a retreat section, where monks can dwell in kutis in seclusion and have their own dana sala down the hill to the east. The fourth section, down the hill to the west of the retreat section, near the village of Endagala, is an “ascetic” section, with a few simple mud kutis. The central area of the monastery consists of an ancient monastery with a few caves and a beautiful forest with many big ironwood trees (Nā trees). This area was a small forest monastery from the 1960s until 1996, when it became a meditation centre in the Pa Auk tradition. The hills to the north of this area, where many kutis have been built, are being reforested. There are about one hundred monks and 30 laypeople at present, but because the monastery is so large and divided into different sections it does not feel crowded. There is a separate nunnery for female practitioners, called Dhammika Ashramaya, a few kilometers away.

Nissarana Vanaya or Mītirigala A. Mītirigala (Meetirigala) 11742. Tel: 033-492-1135/ 033-333-9193. Email: nissaranavanya@gmail.com Website: nissarana.lk. A large, 100 hectare, forest monastery 30 kms east of Colombo. Founded in 1968. About 15 resident monks, usually including a few foreign monks. The meditation teacher, Ven. Dhammajīva, speaks excellent English and meditated for a long time with Sayādaw U Paṇḍita in Burma. He mostly teaches Mahāsi method and offers several retreats every year in English (and many more in Sinhala). For the past few years he has been teaching overseas for extensive periods outside of the Rains Retreat. The library has a good English and German section. Strict standards of Vinaya. Dense low-country jungle on a hill. Humid and hot climate; some leeches. Good support and food by Sri Lankan standards. Sometimes some loudspeaker noise from the village. The Dharmāyatana (see entry in “The Area Around Colombo” Section) is on the hill next to Nissarana Vanaya, a 25 minute walk away. From Colombo take a Kirindiwela Bus at Central Bus stand in Pita Kotuwa (Pettah). The bus leaves close to the Bodhi tree outside the station. In Kirindiwella, ask for a bus to Ranwalla or Wedagama, get off at Mītirigala. It’s a 25 min. walk from the bus-stop to monastery. It is also possible to get off at Pallegama Junction (between Kirindiwela and Pūgoda) and catch buses to Mītirigala Junction. (Do not take the bus to Amītirigala which is further away. If coming from the Ratanapura side, one can take a bus to Amītirigala from Avissawella and ask the driver to stop at the Mītirigala junction. It is about 40 minutes walk from there. If coming from Kandy, take a Colombo bus and get off at Nitambuwa, then go to Kirindiwela, etc.)

Bowalawatta A. or University Forest Solitude (or Vajirārāma A.), Bowalawatta, Hantāna, nr. Kandy. (081 380 9210). In a large forest (previously a tea-estate) on the mountain above Perādeniya University (1 hour’s walk). About 8 kms from Kandy town. Very quiet. Approx. 15 kutis. Neat, clean, and orderly. Cool climate. In the rainy seasons it can be quite humid, with many leeches. Many foreign monks have stayed here. There is no teacher. Affiliated to the Vajirāma group Dharmarakshita chapter of the Amurapura Nikāya. At the Kandy Clock tower station take a Bowalawatta bus. The conductors will know the place where you should get off. From there follow the signs.

Sumantiphala BM. Hilbatgala Rd, Kanduboda, Delgoḍa. Tel: 011-240-2805. Located right next to Kanduboda VMC (see next entry). The abbot and teacher is Ven. Premasiri, a popular and experienced teacher in the Mahāsi tradition as well as other traditional meditation techniques. There are daily question and answer Dhamma discussions from 3-4pm. A book of his teachings called Walking the Tighrope has been published by the Buddhist Publication Society. The place is mainly for laypeople who do not need much guidance, but several foreign monks, especially Czech, stay here too. Ven. Premasiri does not ordain monks any more. The female yogis and nuns have their own separate areas. The facilities are nice and spacious. Lay people have built many kutis and the place looks a bit like a village. Warm and humid climate. It is close to a small road and surrounded by coconut plantations and a few village houses. It is about 20 kms east of Colombo. From the CTB Bus Station at Olcott Mawatha, Pita Kotuwa (Pettah), take the bus no. 224 which stops outside the Kanduboda VMC monastery.

Kanduboda VMC or Siyane VMC. Kanduboda, Delgoḍa. Tel. 011-244-5518; 011-257-0306. E-mail: bhavanam@sltnet.lk A meditation centre and monastery with a long tradition of offering meditation instruction. Besides monks and nuns, also lay meditators stay here and some take ordination. The abbot and teacher at present is Ven. Piyaratana Thera. Women have a separate, enclosed area, and ordination has sometimes been given for western women (which may interest potential dasa-sīl-menayos). A few large buildings with rooms and some kutis. The teaching is in the Mahāsi tradition and the monastery arose out of Mahāsi tradition Sayādaws teaching here in the 1950s or 1960s. One is expected to meditate more than 10 hours a day. The teachers speak little English. The cost to stay here is Rs. 5000 regardless of the duration of staying. Although the tradition is part of the Amurapura Nikāya, it has a separate ordination lineage, originating from the Swejyin Nikāya of Burma (to which Mahāsi Sayādaw belonged). The daily schedule and discipline is more relaxed than in the Mahāsi centres in Burma and there is more individual meditation than group meditation. Kanduboda has more than 25 branches throughout the country. Most have little to attract foreigners. The directions are the same as for Sumantiphala BM (see previous entry).

Hambantota District

Probably the driest district in Sri Lanka, especially along the coast. Hot. Some large wilderness areas such as Yala. Generally flat land, but there is the Vedahitakanda near Kataragama.

Nimalāva AS. Kirinda, Tissamahārāmaya 82614. 12 kms SE of Tissamahārāmaya. About 3 kms walking from Kirinda on the way to Yala National Park. Founded in 1951; see Carrithers, Forest Monks of SL, p. 212. Abbot: Ven. Dhammadassī, a very strict Mahāthera. A large forest monastery. It is rather hot in the dry season. Ancient cave kuṭis under boulders in the jungle. It is bordering Yala National Park and therefore there are elephants and other wildlife such as crocodiles. Foreign monks have stayed here. There is chanting/vandana 3 times a day, but one can be exempted. About the driest climate in Sri Lanka. The piṇḍapāta starts at 9 am (About 25–30 minutes, the monks are usually driven back.) A new retreat centre with 7 restored rock shelters, called Tammana, is less than 1 km, about 15–20 minutes walking, from the original centre, the piṇḍapāta taking consequently that much longer. One can stay there and only have breakfast at the Nimalāva monastery. Usually only one monk stays in Tammana. From here it is worthwhile to visit the ancient forest monastery of Situlpāva in Yāla National Park; see next entry. Aff. Galduwa.

Situlpāva. Accessible from Tissamahārāma, Kirinda, or Kataragama. It is easiest to walk along the access-road from Tissa and get a lift with the pilgrim-buses or jeeps going there. From Nimalāva go to main (Kirinda-road) National Park entrance and then take the boundary track north to the Tissa entrance. A large, ancient cave-monastery. There are ancient ruins and probably more than a hundred cave-kuṭis situated on and along large 70 meter high granite boulders sticking out of the jungle. It is mentioned in a Sinhalese Buddhist song as a place where there were so many arahants flying in the sky that they obscured the sunlight and the farmers could not grow their crops. The incumbent monk of the place is Ven. Hemaratana thera, a Siyam Nikāya temple monk who speaks English well. Forest monks can stay in the cave kutis (after asking permission from head monk.) Food can be gotten from the temple and from pilgrims who come to see the stupas and ruins. There are many animals, some are dangerous, including elephants. There are also a few rest-houses where laypeople can stay. About mid-way between the Tissa entrance and Situlpāva there is a smaller abandoned ancient aranya called Makulvihāra under a large boulder.

Madunāgala A. Koggala. 15 kms north of Ambalantota, east of Siyambalagoda, north of Ridiyagama Wewa. An ancient cave monastery on a remote, quiet forested rock-outcrop ridge, northeast of Ridiyagama Wewa, and surrounded by shrubby lowland. Hot, dry climate. Founded in 1946 by the founder of the Waturawila Vanavāsin group, Waturawila Nāṇananda; see Forest Monks of Sri Lanka p. 184. About 10 cave kutis. There is a cetiya on top of one of the big boulders. Aff: Waturawila. Nearby, about 15 mins. walking to the southwest, is another monastery called Karambagala Aranya; see next entry. To get here, take a bus from Ambalantota (at the clocktower) to Koggala and walk about 7 kms. There are also buses to Suriyawewa, which come closer (3 kms) but are less frequent. From Embilipitiya, take a bus to Suriyawewa and get out at Mahāpelesa, then walk about 7 kms to the monastery, passing the hot springs, and take the road to the east of the ridge. At night, elephants roam in the jungle.

Karambagala A. This monastery, including Madunāgala, was founded in King Gotrabhaya's time and the monks claim that it is the Kuraṇḍaka Monastery of the arahant Cittagutta, whose cave, mentioned in the Visuddhimagga (Ch. 1 § 104ff) is now the shrine room. The monastery was refounded early in the 20th century. There are many rock overhangs on this rocky hill. Some have been converted into kutis. On top of the 100 m high hill is a cetiya. In 2006 the place was inhabited by one 29 year old bhikkhu and 18 young novices.

Bundala Kuṭi. A single kuṭi near the village of Bundala, Hambantota district. For lovers of solitude. In dune-shrubland in the Bundala National Park near the sea. There are a few elephants in the forest. The kuṭi was built for Ven. Nāṇavira in the late fifties. He died in 1965 and since then many foreign bhikkhus have stayed here. Piṇḍapāta in the village, which is about 10 minutes away. Dry hot climate. PTS Pali Tipitaka books are kept in the main dayaka's house in the village. There is some noise from the nearby road and waves crashing on the beach.

Sīmāpavura AS. Sūriya Āra, Angunukolapeessa, Thanāmalwila. Abbot: Ven. Jinasara. On top of rock-hill with good views. Small place with 3 kuties (solar). One cave-kuṭi. Very hot. Angunukolapeessa is 10 kms west of Tanāmalwila, which is halfway on the Tissamahārāma-Wellawāya Rd. Aff. Waturawila.

A swiss monk stayed here for some years. Usgala A. Suriyawewa (Andarawewa). 10 km Northeast of Karambagala. There are three small rock overhangs and a few mud kutis. Three novices from Karambagala A. stay at this rocky outcrop. Mattala A. A new aranya with rock overhangs near Badagiriya Wewa, 10 kms north of Hambantota and Bundala. Perhaps near the village of Udamattala, north of the wewa. Aff. unknown. Svarnagiri AS. Laginagala, Galhiramankada, Kotaweramankada, Tanāmalwila 91312. 1 monk.
